A Message from the NESGNA Board

Happy New Year!

We are excited to welcome the New Year with plans for multiple educational offerings from NESGNA in 2025. Due to decreased attendance at our in-person conferences and the amount of planning needed for each conference, the NESGNA board has decided to move to a hybrid conference model for 2025. Two online Zoom conferences will be offered in the spring and our traditional in-person conference will be held in November. We hope these offerings will increase participation from members and GI colleagues with increased flexibility and ability to plan far in advance for our in-person conference. It is vital that we continue to care for our practice by connecting and learning. Looking forward to seeing everyone at these conferences!

We plan to continue to provide our membership and greater gastroenterology community with giveaways at our conferences, sponsorship of attendance at local and national SGNA programs and support of community events.

NESGNA Spring Online Conferences

This year we will be holding 2 online Zoom conferences for our Spring educational offerings.

How will this work?

- You will need to register and pay for each conference online via a link on our website.
- Once we receive your registration and confirm your membership, an email with a Zoom link will be sent to you the day before the conference.
- Each conference will have three speakers with GI specific topics. You will have an opportunity to ask questions via the chat at the end of each speaker's presentation.
- After the conference is complete, we will send you the CEU certificate via email.

The dates for our spring conferences are Saturday April 12, 2025 and Saturday June 7, 2025. Program and registration details will be announced via email and social media posts.
